Death Takes Life Long Resident

Operation Is Fatal to Mrs.
Nellie Haynes; Funeral
Yesterday

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at the Antioch Methodist church for Mrs. Nellie Haynes, who died Monday at St. Theresa's hospital, where she had undergone an operation a week ago. The services were in charge of Rev. P. T. Bohl, former pastor of the local church, with Rev. L. V. Stiller, assistant.

Burial was in Hillside cemetery, Antioch. Mrs. Haynes was the daughter of John and Frances Dittman, and she was born in Buckley, Illinois, May 26, 1872. When she was about two years of age the family moved to Antioch where she spent her entire life.

On April 8, 1890, she was married to Robert M. Haynes. To them were born four children—Vera and Charles Emery, both of whom died in infancy, and Mrs. Leota Tschert and Mrs. Myrtle Huffendick who live in Antioch. Mrs. Haynes was a member of the Royal Neighbor lodge, and she has been an active member of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church for many years. She and her daughter, Mrs. Huffendick, united with the church on Easter March, 1932. For a number of years she sang in the choir and was always an interested worker in all the activities of the society.

She leaves her two daughters, Mrs. Leota Tschert and Mrs. Myrtle Huffendick; two grandchildren; and three sisters—Mrs. John Hancock, and Mrs. N. L. Nelson of Antioch, and Mrs. Tracy Davis of Crystal Lake; also a host of friends and neighbors who mourn her passing.

The disease which resulted fatally is rather rare, according to physicians, and is caused by the pneumonia germ entering the blood stream.

Funeral services with the Rev. J. E. Charles of St. Ignace church of Antioch, were held from the home Tuesday afternoon. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

NEW FEATURE TO APPEAR IN THE NEWS NEXT WEEK

Attorney Bernard J. Juron
Will Write Articles for This Paper

A new feature which should prove very interesting and instructive to readers will appear in the next edition of the Antioch News.

The articles are entitled, "The Lawyer Explains," and will deal with legal questions encountered in everyday affairs of life, and will particularly explain legal terms that seem to appear so mysterious and technical to the layman.

The author will be Attorney Bernard J. Juron of Round Lake whose office is in Waukegan in the State Bank Building. He also maintains offices in Chicago and Grayslake. Mr. Juron has been a practicing lawyer for sixteen years. He is also licensed to practice law in the State of Florida. He holds membership in many Bar Associations and has recently been appointed to serve on three very important committees of the Illinois State Bar Association. He is Village Attorney for Round Lake and Justice of the Peace in Avon Township.

Watch for his first article next week, entitled, "The Lawyer Explains—Judgment Notes."

Former Future Farmer Elected To State Legislature

Vernon Howell, former President of The Future Farmers of America, an organization of farm boys studying Vocational Agriculture in the High Schools of the United States, was recently elected Democratic senator to the Oklahoma legislature. Vernon is only twenty-one years of age.

The leadership which these young men gain through their many activities is bound to assist them in their later life.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Osmond and Arthur Herman spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Yopp at Burlington.

PARTY AIDS IN NAMING DEPUTIES; SEE FEW CHANGES

With the newly elected county officials preparing to begin their terms of office on December 3 indications are that with the exception of the office of sheriff there will be few changes in the personnel of the staffs of the various offices.

While 50 per cent of the jobs in the sheriff's office will be filled by appointees selected by the county Republican central committee there will be some holdovers in that department.

It was learned this week that in addition to the reappointment of Thomas Kennedy as chief deputy, Joseph Welch, of Barrington, a Republican leader in Cuba township, will be retained as a deputy and there is a general movement among those who appreciate the high efficiency shown by Night Turnkey Jack Hoban for his retention in that post.

Walter L. Atkinson, mayor of North Chicago, is slated to become financial deputy, the second appointive office of importance in the sheriff's office, it is understood.

Practically all of the other deputy sheriffs with but one possible exception are to be removed.

John Bullock, probate court clerk, who was the first to take his oath of office since his reelection will retain Mrs. Bess Dunn as chief deputy and Miss Ruth McMahon as deputy clerk. Both are highly efficient in their duties.

County Clerk Low A. Hendee, Judge Perry L. Parsons, Judge Martin C. Decker and W. C. Petty, county superintendent of schools, all re-elected will take their oaths of office elected will take and indicate that within the week or no changes in their staffs with the exception of those to be filled by order of the county central committee which is believed will hesitate to remove any of the present deputies who are efficient.

Several deputies in the county treasurer's office are to be replaced, according to rumors.

The granting of the right to the county central committee to govern a partial distribution of the patronage in the court house is in a sense taking a leaf out of the book of the democratic county central committee. The latter committee during its last two campaigns has rewarded its precinct committeemen and more ardent workers with lucrative jobs. Many of the newcomers in the ranks of the Republican county central committee entered the organization with the same thought in mind.

Some leaders in the Republican party in the county believe that the county organization has been negligent in providing jobs for its more effective workers. The development of the great patronage system by the Democrats also has shown the lack of attainment in this respect by the Republicans.

Methodist Circle Sponsors Hard Time Party Tomorrow Eve.

The November Circle of the Ladies' Aid Society will entertain at a Hard Time party at the church tomorrow (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A "Honey luncheon" will be a special, and a line of five cents will be assessed from all who come in their "Sunday-go-to-meeting" clothes, the committee announced. The society invites you to put on your old "duds" and come out and enjoy an evening of hilarity and fun.

Union Revival Services to Start Next Sunday

Considerable interest is being manifested in the forthcoming union revival effort being planned for the Alto Theatre, Waukegan, by the Lake County Evangelistic Union made up of pastors and Christian laymen of various churches in Lake county.

The date set for the beginning of the campaign is next Sunday, Nov. 25th, when Rev. P. B. Chennault, pastor of the First Baptist church, LaSalle, Illinois, together with members of the gospel team from his church, will have charge of the service.

Rev. Lowry, who conducted a similar series of evangelistic meetings in the Armory at Waukegan more than twenty years ago, will begin his efforts Tuesday evening, Nov. 27th, continuing for three weeks longer. Dr. Lowry has been affiliated with the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago and his addresses have been heard regularly over station WMBI.

In his evangelistic party will be the widely known singer, Raymond O. Nelson and his wife, the latter being an accompanist. Organization of a choir of 150 voices is being formed and singers interested may write Mrs. C. J. Decker, 2445 Melrose avenue, Waukegan, or phone Waukegan, Majestic 5055.

Prof. Nelson and his wife will also have charge of the children's services and boys and girls of school age will be formed into a chorus group that will sing each Saturday night.

SEE REDUCTION IN COUNTY BUDGET

Taxpayers Petition for a
25 Percent Cut in Expenses

A new program of economy will be submitted to the board of supervisors for approval November 27, it was announced Tuesday following an all-day session of the finance committee of the county board. The committee, headed by Supervisor Dan Hentges of Lake Forest, was confident that many economies would be effected in the county building.

Lawrence A. Doolittle, sheriff-elect, was before the committee, for two hours. He was granted the right to keep pay-rolls in the sheriff's office at the present level, but stated that there are other economies that can be put into practice in the Sheriff's office.

Tiffany's administration during the last 14 months has spent approximately $63,000, according to the annual report made by County Auditor Robert Pearson to the county board of supervisors. Doolittle believes he will have little difficulty in keeping expenses of the sheriff's office under that figure.

Although petitioned by the Waukegan Taxpayers' association to do so, the finance committee, it is understood, will make no cuts of salaries on incoming county officers, but there will be a few cuts recommended for office employees.

Present Petitions. Taxpayers' groups have presented a petition to the county board asking for a 25 per cent reduction in the current budget in order that taxes may be lightened. They have also presented a petition asking for a cash settlement with County Treasurer J. B. Morse. This petition concerns public moneys in closed banks, and maintains that the county board has no right by law to receive a county official of his liability on account of having made deposits of taxpayers' funds in such banks. The amount thus involved exceeds $100,000, the petition states.

APPROVE SALES TAX IN RECORD TIME AT SPECIAL SESSION

Both Houses Vote to Make
2 Per Cent Levy
Permanent

Bowling over all Republican opposition, both houses of the Illinois General Assembly in special session yesterday voted to make the state sales tax permanent. They approved Governor Horner's bill which extends indefinitely the two per cent levy on retail sales.

The House passed the Sinnett bill by a vote of 80 to 49, and the Senate the Laughran bill by a vote of 59 to 13. All that remains to complete the passage of the bill is a perfunctory session of the Senate tomorrow morning when the Sinnett bill, on which the legislators decided to stand, will be read and advanced to third reading, and when midnight has passed it will be read again and put on its passage.

Since one branch of the assembly must approve the other's measures, the plan is to keep the senate in Springfield until early Friday to vote upon the House bill. That will complete the work of the special session.

Passage of the bill in both houses in a total elapsed time of 80 hours will set a record in speedy legislation. It is stated by old timers, and that will be the accomplishment of this session if the sales tax is passed just after midnight tomorrow.

Collects 40 Millions

The sales tax is now being collected at the rate of more than 40 million dollars a year. The average of the old property tax for the last 12 years it was collected was less than $24,000,000. The average total levy for the same period was less than 27 million dollars a year.

Many schools are now closing because the state is back between 8 and 10 millions in its disbursements. This money is owed to the children of the state and, many believe, should be a first lien on funds collected by the state. However, the present administration has attended to almost everything else first leaving the school children to get along as best they could with local financial help.

While the powerful opposition to continuation of the sales tax is largely fundamental, some Republican leaders in the assembly were hopeful that Gov. Horner would follow the established custom in issuing the call so that any part of the sales tax could be amended. This would have opened the door for a possible compromise under which the following could be accomplished:

1. Give the state administration 27 million dollars a year out of the tax, the full average property tax levy and much more than previous administrations received.

2. Turn the remaining money over to the schools, at least, until they are paid the full amounts owed to them from the state school distributive fund.

A plan of this kind would have made at least 13 millions available for the schools. Immediate relief could be had by issuing tax anticipation warrants. There is a balance of around 50 millions in the state treasury and the warrants could have been sold to the state itself, so that it would not have been necessary to pay interest to any individuals.

The insistence of Gov. Horner in having his own way at all times, regardless of honest and able advice, is likely to ultimately result in some new form of taxation. The Illinois State Teachers Association is prepared to ask the regular session of the legislature to raise more school money by creating such new taxes.

CAUTION MUST TEMPER POWER

The fruits of political victory are sweet—but, after the rejoicing is over, they bring to the winner a grave responsibility. That is the responsibility of maintaining intact, for future generations, the ideals, principles and fundamentals of government that have made our country great.

That thought is particularly applicable to the men who hold high office now, after an election in which the party-in-power has emerged with the greatest congressional majority any party has had in our history. It is possible for the best intentioned and most patriotic men to go astray, especially when their power is almost absolute. The smaller and less aggressive their opposition, the greater the care they must take in considering their acts.

No form of government could be more malleable than is ours under the Constitution. It is not a hide-bound document, as some would have us believe, that precludes the possibility of needed reform and change. It does not tyrannically maintain a status quo. Dealing as it does with permanent, not transient matters, it contains within its framework machinery for meeting soundly and swiftly every problem and issue that the nation may from time to time encounter.

No public duty is so great as that of maintaining American democracy. Nothing is so vital to our future welfare as the preservation of the basic principles upon which the country was founded. Besides these matters, the troubles of the present, important as they are, loom small indeed.

Those whom the people have honored with election to office deserve congratulations. Every American wishes them success—and success achieved in the American manner, under the perpetual guidance of the Constitution.

WHAT CREATES WEALTH?

Government cannot create wealth. It can only spend it.

That economic axiom was recently pointed out by B. C. Forbes, in commenting on the delusion that government has a limitless purse, that it can pull bundles of cash out of a magic hat, that "a day of reckoning never comes."

Every cent spent by political organisms must be supplied by the taxpayer. And that term, "taxpayer," means every person in the country who has a job, any savings, a piece of property, a business, or a dollar to spend. It means the day laborer as well as the bank president—the clerk as well as the executive. In fact, the clerk and the day laborer have the most to lose from tax extravagance and the most to gain from tax economy. Government cannot be supported by taxing men of wealth—there aren't enough of them to make a dent in the budget. The great bulk of its revenue comes from indirect taxes on clothes, food—all the necessities and luxuries which the average man and woman of small income buys.

Wealth is created when capital is used to provide facilities with which men can work to produce goods and commodities and services that the people need and want. Potential wealth is lost when the burden of taxation makes impossible this capital investment—when it stifles at the source the jobs and opportunities that would otherwise be provided.

Tax reduction is in the interest of every worker, every farmer, every business and professional man. It would produce jobs, develop industries—and make more taxable wealth. And there is only one way we can have tax reduction—by spending less tax money.

FIX CARS—NOT TICKETS

"With much fixing of automobiles and no fixing of tickets, there should be a material reduction in Chicago's motor-vehicle death rate," said Mayor Kelly in opening a new "safety lane" in which automobiles are given tests to determine mechanical safety.

Chicago's experience with the lane bears that out. During the first week of its operation, 73 per cent of all cars passing through it failed to earn the safety "O. K." The bulk of them had defective brakes, many had wheels out of alignment, while lack of proper lights, mirrors, windshield wipers and horns caused the failure of the rest.

It was then complained that the tests were too stringent, and that only cars in first-class condition were able to pass. The tests were then modified to give automobiles in only fair shape a chance. Even when this was done, 40 per cent of the cars going through the tests failed to meet specifications. It is probable that the percentage of Chicago cars which are unsafe mechanically is higher than this, inasmuch as the owner of a machine whose condition is obviously bad would not subject his car to the tests.

Portland, Oregon, has recently carried on similar examinations, under direction of the state police. The experience has been about like that of Chicago, around half of the cars examined proving to be unsafe in one or more fundamentals.

The unsafe automobile is almost as great a hazard to the public as the reckless driver. Every city interested in reducing the horrible toll of street and highway fatalities should carry on automobile inspections—and then see to it that defects are corrected. In these days of high speeds and super-highways, there is no room for the car with brakes that won't hold, lights that won't illuminate, and horns that won't sound.

FUTURE OF THE G. O. P.

Between now and November, 1936, one of the most popular conversational subjects is bound to be: "What about the Republican Party?" Democratic zealots, echoing the words of Mr. Farley, will say that the party is dead; Republican stalwarts will say that it is simply lying fallow, and shows no signs of decay. The truth probably lies somewhere between these two extremes.

The Republicans took a terrific lacing in the last election—so far as carrying offices was concerned. But they did get around 46 per cent of the total vote cast. A party that gets as substantial minority as that can't be considered dead by a long shot.

One of the principal Republican problems is disunion within the party. Henry Fletcher, Chairman of the Republican Central Committee, is a conservative—many of the principal Republican Senators, such as Borah, Johnson, Couzens and McNary are liberals of varying shades of opinion. It seems a certainty that a strong drive will be made to eliminate Mr. Fletcher and put a liberal in his place—and until the Republicans have fought their own internal battles to a finish, no one can forecast the future of the party with accuracy.

PROFITS AND PROGRESS

Upon a simple but vital principle rests the future economic security of the nation, in the opinion of Paul Shoup, Vice Chairman of the Southern Pacific Railroad. In his words, "Industry must make money. Then will follow the creation of wealth, its conversion into capital, and its use in greater variety and volume of business activities than has existed heretofore."

It has become something of a popular sport these days to denounce the so-called "profit motive" on the grounds that its existence is inimical to humanitarian principles and the welfare of the people. But the lesson of history tells a very different story. Not until profit appeared did civilization as we know it begin. Profit makes jobs. Profit stimulates science and invention. Profit puts money to work where it creates more money—and more jobs. Profit, in brief, makes progress.

The last few years have shown us what profitless business means to a nation.

Size of Yellowstone Park

Yellowstone national park is chiefly to the northwest part of Wyoming, with narrow adjacent strips in Montana and Idaho. It covers a surface as the park proper about 62 miles in length, from north to south and about 64 miles in width, with an actual area of 3,359 square miles. To this region, as originally circumscribed, a forest preserve of some 2,000 square miles has been added on the east and south, giving a full area to the park of somewhat over 5,500 square miles.

Races Have Odor

It is quite possible that other races can detect the odor of the white race. Denker, in his "The Races of Man," refers to the fact that certain travelers have asserted they could recognize a population by its odor. The author admits that some ethnic groups have their specific odor, which gets fainter with scrupulous cleanliness, but never disappears.

Consistency of Moss

Moss is any bryophyte plant of a certain class characterized by the small, leafy, often tufted, stems bearing the sex organs. Mosses are found in all parts of the world growing on earth or rocks, the bark of trees, or, rarely, in streams. Unlike the mold organisms, they do not generally require an organic host.

UNUSUAL FILM ON INDUSTRIAL TOPIC COMING

"Rhapsody in Steel," New Picture on Ford, to Show Here

Announcement that the motion picture, "Rhapsody in Steel," which drew 5,000 persons a day to the Little Theatre in the Ford Exposition Building at the World's Fair in Chicago this summer will be shown here on Monday, Nov. 26, at the Antioch Theatre, was made today by Wm. A. Itosing, local Ford dealer.

The film, which has been hailed by critics as one of the most unusual and entertaining of the year, brings to this city for the first time the musical compositions of Edwin E. Ludig, nationally-known composer who prepared the symphonic score. Ludig for many years arranged incidental music for the late David Belasco's plays.

Described as an industrial "extravaganza," the picture depicts, with the aid of a symphony orchestra playing a specially composed score, the dream of a workman in the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company after his day's task is completed. Central theme of "Rhapsody in Steel" is the assembly of a Ford V-8 car, as the workman dreams it might be assembled under the direction of a little imp which materializes from the V-8 insignia.

Filmed in the Rouge plant, with the symphonic music portraying the pounding of hydraulic presses, the hum of lathes, the roar of the factory whistle, and the lilting melody of the Ford V-8 engine, the film shows the authentic—although unusual—assembly of an automobile. A little imp materializing from the V-8 insignia marshals all the Ford parts into line, and, without human direction, they assemble themselves into a completed car, to musical accompaniment. Dialogue in the picture is by the Ford V-8 car itself—the bumper dividing to form a pair of lips which announce what is to follow.

"Rhapsody in Steel" comes here from a lengthy showing at the Little Theatre in the Ford Exposition Building on the grounds of A Century of Progress in Chicago, where it drew capacity crowds daily. The unusual method of handling the central theme, coupled with Ludig's musical score, brought national attention from critics who declared the film the greatest forward step in the presentations of an industrial subject. ## Illinois Celebrates 116th Anniversary Of Sovereign Statehood Status

December 3rd Recalls Stirring Days of Early Frontier Settlements

By GEORGE TICHENOR

On December 3, Illinois will be one hundred and sixteen years old—a towering figure among the states which make up the Union preserved by her own Lincoln. It is an anniversary which will tempt the reader, I hope, to join me in a quick and vivid survey of the events which combined to make the wilderness of 1784 the commonwealth of 1934. In her history, we find a blot of the difficulties which other territories met—and are still meeting—in their arduous climb toward statehood. We discover that the march toward political maturity is through a maze of conflicting forces and divergent ideals.

More than the majority of states, Illinois has known the wracking uncertainty and clouded fate which is the misfortune of a community torn between parties of different nationalities and interests. Named and explored by the French of the 17th century, illuminated by such voyageurs and priests as Joliet, La Salle and Marquette, settled as part of the Province of Louisiana, ceded to Great Britain by the Treaty of Paris, in 1763, settled by colonists from Virginia, home of contention in the American Revolution, prize of George Rogers Clark, and twenty-first state in the struggling young republic—Illinois in her youngest days had more than her share of hardship to overcome.

Americans Establish Order. Americans brought established order to Illinois in the early nineteenth century. In this state, we look back upon two military campaigns in the early history of Illinois, the heroic exploits of Colonel George Rogers Clark and his Kentucky backwoodsmen, and second, the Black Hawk War, in which Abraham Lincoln served as a captain.

The figure of Clark is one of the stately and most pathetic in the history of our state. A man of brilliant, courage and resourcefulness, possessing a striking resemblance to George Washington in appearance, but lacking the balance which transformed Washington's genius to the granite of integrity. At twenty-two, Clark had served in Dury's war. As a major of militia on the frontier, he decided to capture the British bases for the Indian raids. To the end of the Revolution, with inadequate men and resources, he kept a grip on the Ohio that helped secure our territory to the United States in 1783. His later years were pitifully beset by poverty and drink.

In December, 1777, Clark obtained the consent of Governor Thomas Jefferson of Virginia to his scheme of conquest. In the dead of winter, with a little band of 176 rifles, he struck out from Louisville, to the British fort of Kaskaskia. He captured the fort. Fort Vincennes some distance away surrendered to Clark's emissaries. The British governor, Hamilton, from Detroit, launched a counter-attack against Vincennes, and the inhabitants, their terror of the "Hair Buyer," surrendered without resistance. Hamilton now waited for settled weather, to recapture Kaskaskia and Cahokia in the same way.

Clark Attacks Vincennes. He reconquered without the daunting courage of Clark. Collecting what was left of his Virginia forces, Clark set out for Vincennes across the swollen rivers and flooded bottom lands of an Illinois February. Those who have read Churchill's "The Crossing" will never forget the harrowing ordeals of that "blue-ness" weather, or the figure of the little drummer boy, riding through the flood on the shoulders of a stalwart frontiersman. Surprising the fort, Clark besetled Hamilton and took him and his forces prisoner. This was the zenith of Clark's career, and it is well to draw the curtain here.

Illinois, first a territorial extension of the State of Virginia, achieved partial identity in 1787, when all states relinquished their claims to the country west of the Alleghenies, and the Northwest Territory was organized by Congress.

In 1800 Illinois was included in the Territory of Indiana, and in 1809 she achieved separate identity as the Territory of Illinois. Nine years later, in spite of the opposition of certain conservative factors along the Atlantic seaboard which viewed with disfavor the swing of the political balance of power towards the west, she achieved statehood following a heated debate in Congress.

Thus it was that Illinois became the twenty-second star in the American flag on December 3rd, 1818. As state after state followed her into the Union, they studied her struggle to the ladder to political maturity, they compared their own status to hers prior to 1818, they found strength in the precedents which she established. Hawaii Wants Statehood. One after another they came flocking into the Union, with Arizona, the last thus far, contributing her star in 1912. Today there is only one candidate for statehood, one political entity which is a logical aspirant for a position of equality among sister commonwealths.

Out in the Pacific within airplane flight of the California coastline, the Territory of Hawaii wants the honor of adding the forty-ninth star to our national flag. The history of Hawaii is so unusual, her development so interesting, and her economic status so significant, that her claim to statehood status is well worth a quick survey.

Superficially, Hawaii seems entirely different from Mainland states. But underneath this superficial difference is a basic similarity which is all the more impressive because it has evolved in a period of only one hundred and fourteen years. In 1820 the brig "Thaddeus" carried a group of New England missionaries to Hawaii, landing them there after a stormy one hundred fifty-seven day voyage around the Horn. They brought with them New England ideals of religion and a staunch Americanism which flourished and expanded in the new soil. For eighty years these missionaries and their descendants were loyal subjects of the Hawaiian monarchy. Only when that monarchy became hopelessly out of step with the democratic life of the people did they aid in its overthrow, establishing a Republic, which after a few years independence, was annexed to the United States with its own consent in 1900.

New England Traditions. These early New England settlers, viewed in retrospect, were men and women of extraordinary character—self-sufficient, self-reliant, and at times so reserved that they failed to attain a complete understanding with casual visitors. It remained as they have enrolled at the Wisconsin University.

Rev. and Mrs. S. Jodelo and family were at Elkhorn on Sunday evening where Rev. Jodelo assisted with the ordination and installation of Rev. Walter Diehl as pastor of the Elkhorn Lutheran church. Rev. Jodelo preached the English sermon.

Mrs. J. A. Nonal was out from Oak Park from Monday to Thursday at Carey's.

The dart hall season opened with a game at the High School Monday night between Wilmot and Liberty Corners. Eleven teams have been organized for the township of Salem and a twelfth is planned. Officers at Wilmot are: Manager and President, John Sauter; Captain, Frank Kruckman; Secretary, Alfred Reynolds; Treasurer, George Higgins. Mr. and Mrs. William Volbrecht were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Harm at Richmond, Sunday. Mrs. Mollie Harm, of Spring Grove visited there Wednesday.

Arthur Stoen and Mrs. Natalie Stroepe of Waukegan spent Monday with their parents Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stoen.

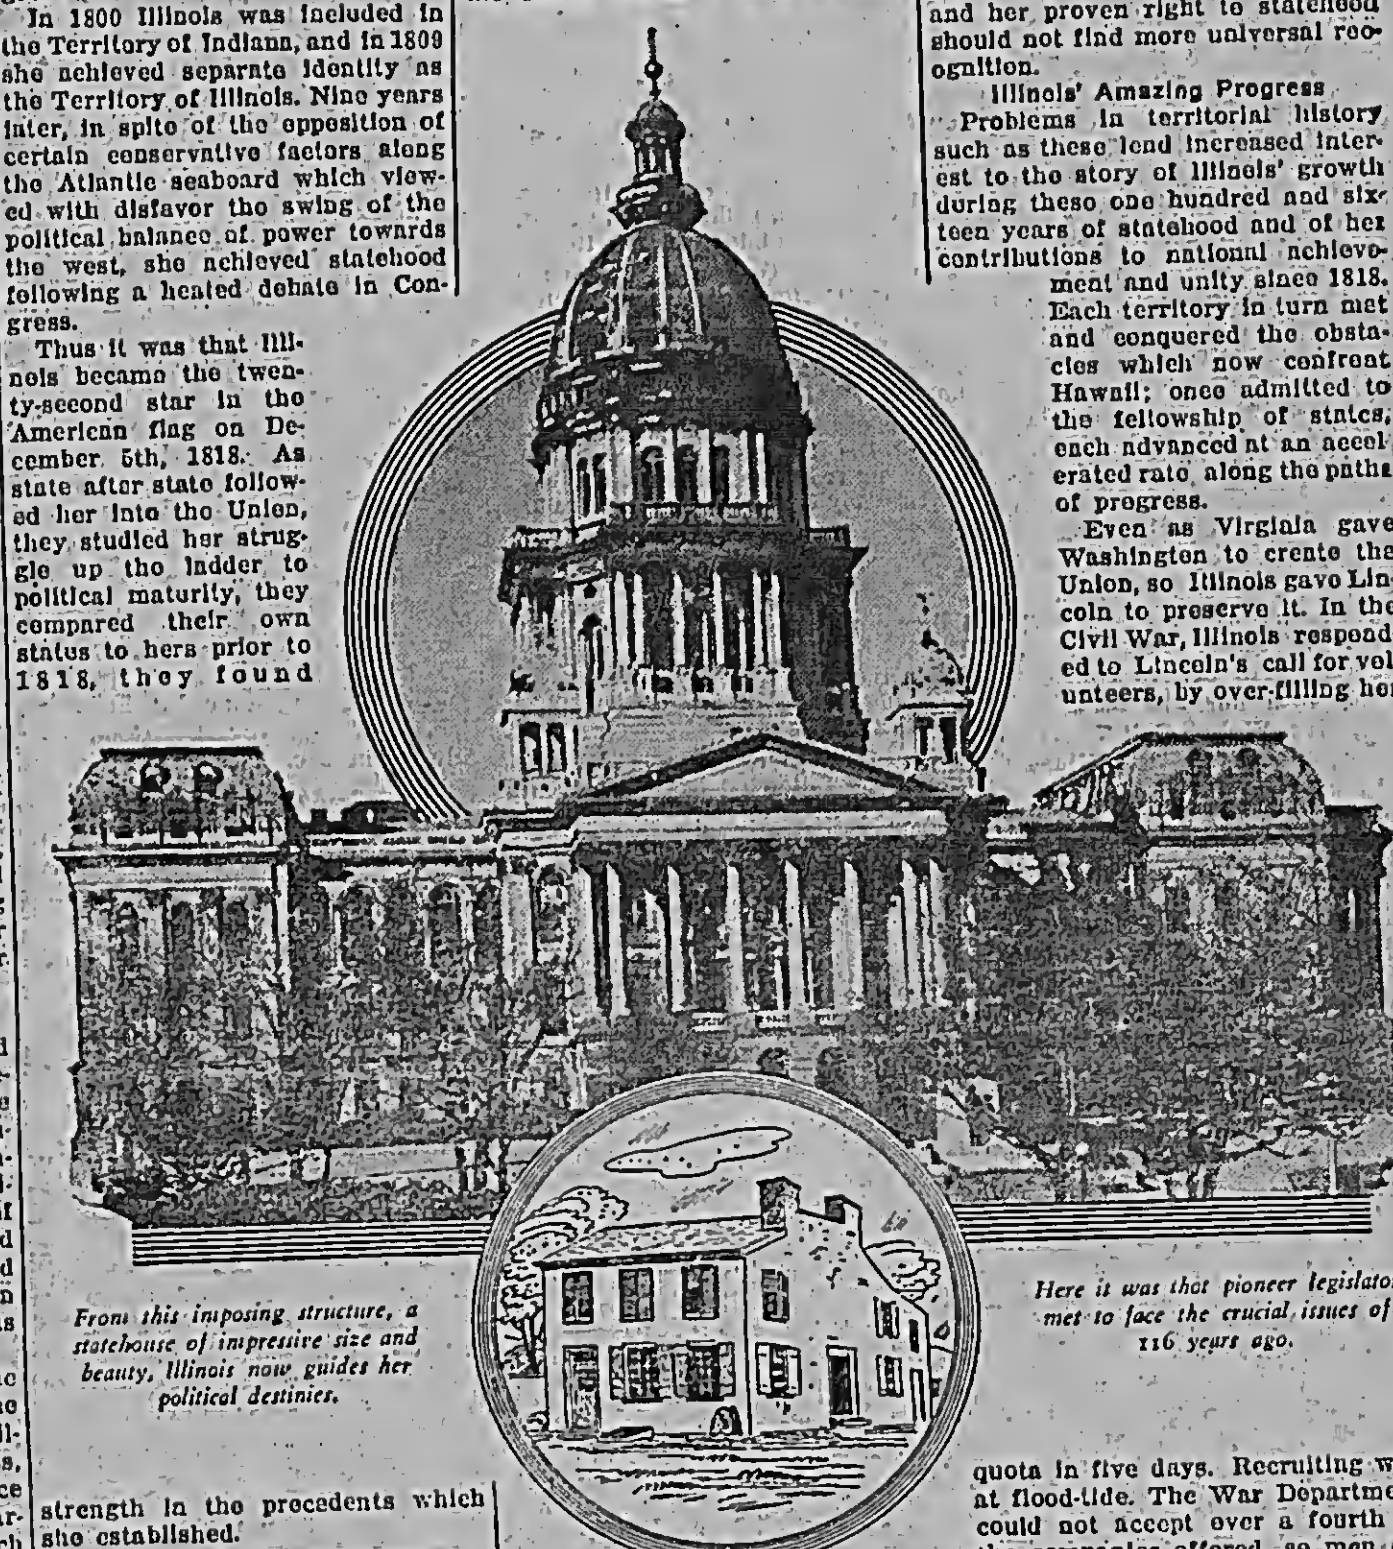

Mrs. Mary Stoyens was in Kenosha for the day Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Voss, Mr. and Mrs. Lynne Shorman from Randall and Mrs. A. Catos, teacher of the Oak Knoll school were in Kenosha for the Directors' and Teachers' convention.

In this fact, plus a natural disinclination for personal publicity or self praise, which has contributed so largely to the misunderstanding concerning the Territory which still prevail. Hawaii's economic situation is also unique in that she is a one-industry locality, and that one industry, for better or worse, must maintain her economic life. Hawaii is sugar, and sugar-dollars provide seventy per cent of the money spent in the maintenance of her 380,000 people. In no other part of the United States is there a situation

The situation is particularly acute at this time because the quotas set up under the Jones-Costigan Act are crippling in their effect on the Hawaiian sugar industry, and therefore are a grave economic menace to the whole Territory. Under these quotas Hawaii will have left on her hands, this year and next year alone, 400,000,000 pounds of sugar which she will be unable to ship to the Mainland. She believes that Cuba and the Philippines have been favored at Hawaii's expense, and she regrets that her place as an integral part of the United States and her proven right to statehood should not find more universal recognition.

Illinois' Amazing Progress. Problems in territorial history such as these lend increased interest to the story of Illinois' growth during these one hundred and sixteen years of statehood and of her contributions to national achievement and unity since 1818. Each territory in turn met and conquered the obstacles which now confront Hawaii; once admitted to the fellowship of states, each advanced at an accelerated rate along the paths of progress.

Even as Virginia gave Washington to create the Union, so Illinois gave Lincoln to preserve it. In the Civil War, Illinois responded to Lincoln's call for volunteers, by over-filling her quota in five days. Recruiting was at flood-tide. The War Department could not accept over a fourth of the companies offered, so men enlisted in Missouri regiments. Illinois' grain fields supplied the troops with food, and General Grant volunteered his services in Illinois. Again, in the World War, the 14th Field Artillery, Illinois' unit of the Rainbow Division, served with outstanding distinction, as did the 33rd Division and other well-remembered corps. Governor Frank O. Lowden played a prominent part in organizing the state for war.

From this imposing structure, a statehouse of impressive size and beauty, Illinois now guides her political destinies.

Here it was that pioneer legislators met to face the crucial issues of 116 years ago.

Wealth of State. From 1830 onward, Illinois enjoyed the accumulated prosperity attendant upon the growth of agricultural interests. Illinois became the granary of the United States, but she knew the disheartening setbacks of unsettled conditions in other parts of the Union, ultimately prospering through the courage and resourcefulness of her citizens.

With the exception of Iowa, no other state has so large a proportion of land susceptible of cultivation as Illinois. By the census of 1930, Illinois had 214,497 farms containing 30,695,539 acres of land and buildings valued at $3,336,049, 028. In spite of the industrial vitality of Chicago—this resplendent heart of the nation—the state as a whole still bears the mark of an agricultural community. The wheat harvest, alone, in 1931, was 45,076,000 bushels; corn, 339,846,000 bushels; oats, 142,188,000 bushels, and somewhere in the state is grown every farm product of the temperate zone.

The depression is lifting, and though Illinois, like other states, can find little cause for self-congratulation in the recent economic past, at least at this birthday she looks forward to a brighter year than the last few. Our rivers, canals and trunk line railroads are beginning to shoulder burdens worthy of strong men, once again. An encouraging percentage of our eight million population are returning to work, and happier returns of many more birthdays are in prospect.

tion anywhere like this. The great-est Mainland industries are relatively small in proportion to most whole. But after years of most careful experimentation and trial, Hawaii has discovered that she is ideally situated to produce sugar efficiently, and in consequence the raising and milling of sugar cane dwarfs all her other activities.

Anything that affects the production and sale of this crop is of pocket-book importance to every citizen of the Territory. The hazard of insect pests is constantly threatening the growing cane like an inviolable sword of Damocles. Individual planters were helpless in meeting this menace, so they grouped themselves into a voluntary league, the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, and by cooperative action have conquered every threat to the growing cane that has invaded the Islands.

Hawaii Well Qualified. Hawaii, applicant for statehood, pays more taxes to the Federal Government than any one of sixteen states; its population is larger than that of Delaware, Nevada, Vermont, or Wyoming. It is eager to prove that politically, economically, and socially, it meets every requirement of statehood. Its labor is better paid and better cared for than agricultural labor on the Mainland, the percentage of unemployment is far less than elsewhere in the United States, and there is for the worker an unusually high degree of personal security—a new deal which was in operation in Hawaii long before the New Deal was thought of.

There is on the Islands today a spirit very much like that in the original colonies when "taxation without representation" was the slogan which brought on the Revolutionary War. Hawaii, however, looks forward to no revolution but only to an orderly evolution which will bring her to a position of equality within the Union.

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 18.

The Golden Text was, "Canst thou be true thy loving kindness in the morning; for in thee do I trust: canst thou to know the way wherein I should walk; for I lift up my soul unto thee?" (Psalms 143:8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I will extol thee, my God, O King; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever. All thy works praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee. Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations" (Psalms 145:1, 2, 10, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We cannot deny that life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of Soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord" (p. 390).

Hints for Homemakers
By Jane Rogers

There is some especially cheering news for families that include an aged person, a convalescent or one afflicted in such a way that stair-climbing is painful or dangerous. Residence elevators, once found only in millionaires' mansions, are now being made by a leading manufacturer at a cost no greater than that of a good automobile. The installation is said to be a simple matter, requiring surprisingly few changes in the home. Through the Home Owners' Loan Association it is possible to have the cost of the installation financed.

Have you ever noticed the tiny, low piles that give that rich sheen and soft feel to the mohair velvet upholstery on your furniture or in your car? Proving that little things can add up to amazing totals, it has been estimated that in a single automobile, an average-size sedan, more than 92 miles of thread are represented by the pile fibres. In textile phraseology, these piles supply "the third dimension," giving mohair velvet fabrics their beauty and durability.

Bee Raid Sugar Refinery
Millions of bees recently raided the sugar vats of the sugar refining works in a suburb of Auckland, New Zealand. Workmen, attired in light clothing because of the great heat, attempted to rout them, and were seriously stung. Thousands of bees were drowned in the sugar and redning had to be stopped until the dead of beetle were removed.

Naming Mount Mitchell

Mount Mitchell, 18 miles east of Asheville, N. C., is named for Prof. Elisha Mitchell. In 1857, while determining the height of the mountain, he lost his life by a fall from a precipice. The body of the scientist is buried at the summit.

Ro-Day-o, Ro-Dee-o

Both pronunciations ro-day-o and ro-dee-o are given by different authorities, though the original Spanish pronunciation of ro-day-o, with accent on second syllable, is preferred by the dictionaries.

Heredit

Except for a few cases of sex-linked heredity, such as color blindness, hemophilia, night blindness and Gower's disease, in which sons inherit directly from the mother, there are no evidences that heredity differs between the sexes.

Enjoying the Fortune

ADJUSTING BANKING TO CHANGING NEEDS

By ROBERT V. FLEMING
Vice President American Bankers Association

BANKERS recognize that changing conditions require new methods of doing business. However it is their responsibility to retain those essential and sound financial principles upon which this country was founded and has grown to be what is still the richest nation on the globe.

R. V. FLEMING

Many of our difficulties have arisen from lack of confidence and from misunderstanding. Therefore it behooves the banker to build every effort to create a better public understanding of sound banking and thereby bring about that united effort and cooperative spirit which will hasten the day of national recovery and restore to the banker the confidence of the public to which he is entitled.

As an approach to the realization of this ideal, bankers should carefully scrutinize every application for a loan to see if it is bankable and, if it is not in bankable form, then make further examination to see if the loan can be made so, in order that the use of credit may be stimulated.

Explaining Loan Factors to Customers. We must not expect our customers to be bankers and understand all the factors which we must consider before granting a loan. If we find that a loan is not, and cannot be made, bankable, then I think we should take pains to explain to the applicant the reasons why it cannot be granted.

There are other measures which I think it important for the banker to undertake in order to eliminate the misunderstandings which have arisen and overcome the sentiment which exists. Under present conditions we have to operate under many laws and regulations, and also watch what further legislation is being proposed which affects our methods of operation and may not be in the best interest of the communities we serve. Nowadays it seems at times we must sit with a law book in one hand and a book of regulations in the other in order to make certain we are discharging our daily duties and functioning strictly in accordance with the law. All of this is very trying, yet I think in the end we shall become better bankers.

I believe it is the duty of every banker today to endeavor to understand the public he serves. In addition to his daily duties, trying as they are, he should participate in the activities of his community, so that, with the fund of information available to him, he may be as helpful as possible in all public and civic matters.

Wearing Quality of Textiles

Warm Milk Helpful in Relaxing the Active Child

By FRANCES BERKELEY FLOORE
Director of Dietetics, St. Luke's Hospital

WITH the radio, the movie and the Century of Progress vying for the school child's interest, the problem of seeing that he gets the proper amount of rest is perhaps more difficult than it was some years ago. But the modern child probably needs his rest even more than that child of yesterday, for with the increased excitement and activity of present day life, it is most important that he should have sleep to build up his strength. With the additional strain of school life, now being taken up again, sleep is even more important than in the summer.

Explaining why sleep is necessary a leading nutritional authority, Dr. Lydia J. Roberts, says: "A continual shortage of sleep, whether out of the evening or morning end of the day's quota, may adversely affect the nutrition of the child in at least two ways. During sleep the body processes slow down and the need for energy is the least the body can ever require; awake and active, the needs are greatly increased. Thus every hour of awake activity stolen from the sleep quota, increases the fuel needed by the body. Unless more food is eaten to compensate, the body tissues are burned and loss of weight follows. But in addition loss of sleep results in a hyper-irritable nervous system, and nervous tension still further increases the food needs, while at the same time it usually diminishes the desire for food. Thus a lack of sleep tends to produce a nervous, irritable, undernourished child."

At six to seven years of age the child needs about 12 hours' sleep every night; the eight to ten-year-old needs eleven hours; the child of eleven or twelve should have ten or eleven hours; the adolescent of thirteen to fifteen years still needs from ten to twelve hours; and the sixteen to eighteen year olds should have nine or ten hours.

It is this last age group that is most apt to slight the hours of sleep—the athletes who have training races to keep are probably the only ones who keep to such a schedule with any regularity. Perhaps if young girls realized the truth in the old saying about "beauty sleep" they would be more willing to go to bed earlier for it is true that lack of sleep quickly makes inroads on attractive personal appearance.

The problem of sleep for the young child is more easily controlled by the parents. A regular bedtime hour should be established; then make bedtime a pleasant period, rather than a punishment, making the half hour before retiring something to anticipate by having story telling or quiet games. It is a good idea to go into the room with the child to see that he is tucked in and comfortably settled; and of course see that the room is at comfortable temperature—about fifty degrees Fahrenheit if possible with plenty of fresh air—and as free from noise as possible. A glass of warm milk at bedtime is helpful in relaxing the child.

Not only sleep but a certain amount of rest and relaxation is essential. After school the child should not have to start on other lessons such as music, dancing or dramatic work. Nor should he have much home work to do. There should be at least two hours in his day which he can spend as he chooses.

Selfishly considered, parents should be vitally interested in seeing that their children have ample rest and sleep, for, as Doctor Roberts points out, a child suffering from sleeplessness is a nervous, troublesome one.

AMUSEMENTS

"Kentucky Kernels," Five Vaudeville Acts at Kenosha Theatre

Gay music, gorgeous girls, delightful dancing and hilarious fun are the entertainment constituents of the new Bert Woolsey and Robert Woolsey hit, "Kentucky Kernels," showing at the Kenosha Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

The music is provided by Harry Ruby and Bert Kalmar's "One Little Kiss," a rhythmic piece of melody. Its lyrics are sung by Wheeler, Woolsey, Mary Carlisle, beautiful leading girl, and Noah Beery, and its time serves as a musical background for a modern garden dance by a toe-stepping group of gorgeous chorines.

The comedy in "Kentucky Kernels" results from Wheeler and Woolsey's mad antics below the Mason and Dixon line. They act as peace-makers between warring Kentucky clans, while Wheeler courts a Colonel's daughter and Woolsey socially entertains the foe. Their activity builds to a rollicking climax.

As usual—five big acts of vaudeville, this week-end headed by Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh, popular fan mail stars of WBBM. This week's vaudeville will be seen from the stage of the Kenosha Theatre, where it has been moved from the Gateway.

Jackie Heller on Genesee Stage

Jackie Heller, one of radio's favorite song stars heads the stage show at the Genesee Theatre in Waukegan next Sunday, Nov. 25th. Introduced to radio listeners several years ago by Ben Bernie, the diminutive Jackie Heller shortly became a popular favorite. He has been heard over NBC networks and on many of the Chicago station broadcasts. His style of song delivery is unique and responsive audiences have greeted him most enthusiastically on his present vaudeville tour.

In addition to Heller the Genesee stage show includes the Russian Revels, a singing, dancing and musical impression of Old and New Russia presented by a company of ten stars, Sammy Lewis and Pat Moore in a comedy sketch "Love in the Rough," Wilfred Dubois and one other headline act.

The screen attraction Sunday, "Kentucky Kernels," is a hilarious, side-splitting feature starring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. Supporting cast includes Mary Carlisle, Noah Beery and Spanky McFarland.

Free Lessons In Leisure His Goal

A CHICAGO manufacturer to whom the depression has been no kinder than to most has found his compensation for hard times in a vision of a safer and saner future.

"In my picture of the years ahead," says Robert F. Bensinger, "I see an era of industrial and political peace, with emphasis placed wisely on the employment of time rather than, as now, on the employment of man-power."

"In recent years we have been discovering that without the pattern of leisure which decorates our life, our work loses much of its meaning."

Much of our leisure now, even much of the now leisure created by political edict, he asserts, is employed futilely at the movies, at such "mob" games as football and baseball, where the many watch while the few play.

"Yet there are games in which the player really plays, and one of them is billiards. Another is bowling. Persons and organizations interested in these two games appear to have discovered much the same thing that has dawned upon me, for both have organized efforts to increase their playing population by providing free instruction throughout the country."

Mr. Bensinger proposes that for every college endowment of a course in making money, another be created for the teaching of how to spend.

No prizes the wise planning of playgrounds and sports fields in Europe, and the increasing tendency there to bring people to the sports rather than, as in America, carrying the sports to the people as spectacles. He deprecates the passing of the "sand lot" in this country, and the failure to provide an adequate substitute for that incubator of sport.

His own plan of free instruction in billiards he regards as a step in the right direction.

By-Products From Corn

From the kernels of corn are derived yeast, gluten, dry and wet starches. Dry starch is used in making textiles, paper, confectionery, explosives, adhesives, colors, and fireworks. Sugar is derived from the wet starch for use in dietetics, brewing, alcohol, fermentations, etc. Also, corn oil, soap, glycerin, salad and other oils may be derived from the germ in the corn.

Dogs Have Topknot

Many dogs of the Mexican hairless variety are crested with a topknot and carry a tuft of hair at the tip of the tail. In others it is bristly and upright. The eyes, hairless, are yellow, hazel or dark, bordered with pink or dark rims. Like that of an impatient race horse, the nervous tremor of the muscles and sinews is characteristic. Not classed for any particular utility, he is considered, however, a good hunter of rabbits and rats. His owners attest that his intelligence, brightness and affection more than repay that tolerance of his unprepossessing appearance.

The Word "Pamphlet"

The word pamphlet was originally, Pamphelin, the name of a Greek lady who left behind her a vast quantity of literary material in the form of short notes and essays, and this proved to be of such value that it gave a name to a new style of publication.

River Like a Sea

The Amazon river is navigable for 3,000 miles, the distance between New York and London. With its tributaries it comprises the largest river system in the world. In many places the Amazon looks more like a sea than a river.

What Vocation Shall My Boy Choose?

By C. E. Johnston,
Director, Schools of Business Training, International Correspondence Schools.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in the future will differ from those in the past. A young man's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

The Skilled Accountant

ACCOUNTING and bookkeeping are so often confused that at the start it is best to define the difference between the two. Bookkeeping is the keeping of records. Accounting is far more than this.

The skilled accountant is a business analyst. His function is the proper placing of costs, the locating of profits and the discovery of the unseen leaks that sap the life of a business and destroy profits. His analysis shows which operations of a business are conducted at a profit and which are really resulting in a loss. His reports are to the business what charts and observations are to the navigating officers of an ocean liner.

The growing complexity of business organization, the increasing demands of stockholders and others for a complete and accurate picture of the profit and loss results of operations, are all tending to increase the already great importance of the skilled accountant. The success of every phase of the National Recovery Program demands accurate accounting information. There seems to be no reasonable doubt that the demand for skilled accountants will be even greater in the future than it has been in the past.

The doorway to accounting is a wide one, since clerical work of almost any kind having to do with the financial side of a business will provide a certain amount of basic knowledge and experience. The principles and methods of accounting itself are intricate and demand specialized knowledge which can only be acquired by hard study, but the opportunity for such study during spare time is always open to the young man who is really earnest in his ambition to succeed.

Use Old Friend Sour Cream

Many Recipes Improved by Its Zestful Tang; Good in Cakes, Cookies

"What to do with sour cream?" is often asked. The wisest answer is "Use it."

In salad dressings and in some creamed dishes, sour cream is delicious. Cooked cabbage with a sour-cream dressing made from the yolk of 1 egg, 1/2 cup sour cream, 1 tablespoon butter, salt and paprika, seems like an entirely new vegetable. Beat the egg, add the cream, fat and seasonings. Let the mixture come to a boil, pour over cabbage and serve hot.

Try some of the following recipes:
Brown Sugar Cream Icing
Boil 1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup sour cream and 1/2 teaspoon soda until the mixture forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Add 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup nut meats, and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Remove from fire, cool and beat until thick.

Sour Cream Pie
3 beaten egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, 1 pint thick sour cream, 1/2 pound chopped raisins, salt. Bake, meringue on top.

Sour Cream Devil's Food Cake
1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup cream, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon of soda, 2 squares melted chocolate, 1/2 cup hot water. Bake in layers.

White Sour Cream Cake
1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup thick sour cream, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 1/2 cups pastry flour. Bake in two layers. Nice with sugar fudge frosting, lemon jelly filling or seasoned whipped cream and berries.

Brown Sour Cream Cake
2 eggs, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon soda, about 1 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 pound each of citron, cherries, candied pineapple, almond, pecan nuts, 1/2 pound raisins, 1/2 teaspoon each of nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves, allspice, vanilla and lemon extract. Bake one hour slowly.

Sour Cream Drop Cookies
Cream 1 egg with 1 cup sugar, add 1 cup of sour cream and 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt and nutmeg, 1 teaspoon of baking powder, and flour to drop.

Sour Cream Cookies
1 cup sour cream, 1/2 teaspoon soda, small 1/2 cup of sweet milk, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, butter size of an egg. Flavor with lemon and roll out very soft.

Sour Cream Doughnuts
1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 cup sweet milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Four to roll soft.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

THIS is the week to buy the staple and non-perishable foods needed for Thanksgiving, to order your turkey, to get such delicious "take as you like" meats and shell nuts as you like. Be sure too, that your place is adequately stocked with seasonings for stuffing and pumpkin pie. A carefully planned menu and a market list will help simplify your work.

For this week-end simple foods are preferred. A pot roast or plain roast of lamb, beef or pork with plain buttered vegetables and a simple fruit dessert or milk pudding is desirable. Root vegetables and the citrus fruits are inexpensive. Cabbage and spinach are both cooking and eating apples also are low in price.

In place of the very special dinner this week we are including a Thanksgiving menu of seasonable and reasonably priced foods.

"Streamline"

GROWING RURAL FAMILY MUST REMODEL HOME

Not Always Able to Move, Country Residents Add Space by Alterations

As the rural family grows, and more conveniences are needed to keep in step with higher farm standards, or as finances allow them to live better, they cannot always move to another home as city residents do. They must remain on their farm. If the old farm house is inadequate, the only alternative is to remodel.

If space is the problem, a new wing may solve it. A two-story wing can accommodate a sun-room, breakfast nook, pantry or wash room downstairs. Or a porch may be enclosed, insulated and finished to provide the needed downstairs room, and a sleeping porch glassed in and insulated for use as a bedroom the year around at little more cost than would be necessary to repair a leaking roof or sagging floor in either one. Slight changes in the interior wall arrangement will put unused space where it is needed, and often make the house more convenient.

The country housewife wants the conveniences enjoyed by the city folk. Her task is much harder, and she deserves the comforts of electricity, running water, modern plumbing fixtures and central heating. Many power companies are now running electric transmission lines through rural districts. Where city electricity is not available, individual plants have proved satisfactory. Electric lights eliminate the arduous daily task of cleaning and filling kerosene lamps, which are dangerous as well as eye-straining. Electric washing machine, iron and vacuum cleaner ease the farm woman's burden, and allow her to devote more time to her children and to the social activity of her community.

Modern plumbing and central heating are a boon to the health of the farm family as well as an aid to the housewife. Hot and cold water pipes should be run to all fixtures, and an efficient water heating plant included in plumbing installation.

A heating plant to replace the old-fashioned arrangement of a stove in each room, which many farm homes depend upon all winter, will require much less care and guarantee better health for the family. While it is being installed, the basement can be waterproofed and made into a laundry, work room, food storage pantry, nursery or game room.

While remodeling is being planned, the house should be checked for necessary repairs, including the elimination of fire hazards.

If expert attention is given, the planning of the alterations, it will be found that the desired results usually require very slight changes. Good plans are expensive, but they save money for the property owner not only while the job is being done, but also later when poor planning might have required the correction of mistakes. The office remodeling job, provided it does not exceed $2,000 can be financed by a Federal Housing Administration property improvement loan, obtainable at any approved insular institution which requires no security and is repaid in reasonable installments.

Edison Disliked Decorators
Upon Thomas Edison's second trip to Europe the French Telephone company offered him a decoration which required that he wear a long eash. But the Edison family refused to wear the eash. He couldn't stand for that. Persuaded by his wife, he did however consent to wear the little red button of the League of Honor. But whenever he saw any American approaching he would slip the button into his pocket for fear, as he said, "they might think I am trying to show off."

Operated by Mouse Power

In the Nineteenth century, a man in Scotland perfected a machine that was operated by mouse power. Running in revolving cages, the mice manufactured sewing thread, twisting and reeling 20 feet a day, writes W. T. Hogue, Denton, Texas, in Collier's Weekly. The inventor was building a mill to use 10,000 mice when he died. Apparently he never realized the work involved in putting them in and taking them out of 10,000 cages each day.

Weapons of Wasps, Bees

Wasps and bees are equipped with the most formidable weapons of defense of all insects. Many insects can bite and puncture with their mouth parts, but they can't do it as handily, neatly and effectively as the wasps can puncture with their stings. The sting of the common social wasp or bee is simply a weapon of defense which is not used so long as the insects are not disturbed or threatened with injury.

When Blackbirds Hatch

The young of iridescent redwing blackbirds all hatch at almost exactly the same time.

Household Hints

Breakfast bacon will be crisp and dry if it is drained on brown paper or a paper napkin for a few minutes after it is fried.

After laundering a slip cover, replace it on the chair while it is still damp to prevent shrinkage. Smooth it into shape on the chair with a hot iron.

Bitumastic linoleum, cemented on, makes a lifetime covering for the kitchen table which is easy to take care of and soft enough to prevent easy breaking of dishes. Only the best grade of linoleum is used for this purpose. Colors to harmonize with the room may be obtained.

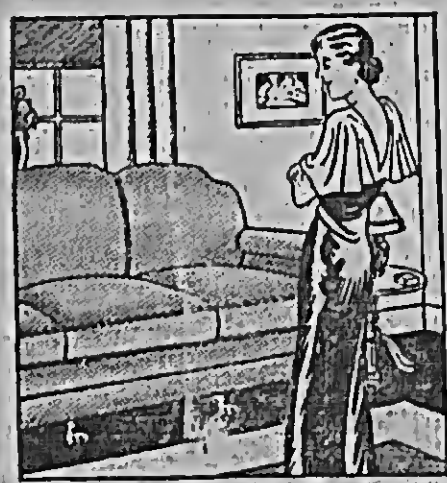

Rubber bloomers for a baby should be used only on special occasions, such as during a trip.

To remove ink stains, place spotted material on folded bath towel, cover the spot with baking soda and pour on enough peroxide to make a thin paste. With the tip of a teaspoon rub the solution into the spot and then rinse in cold water. Repeat if necessary.

A rubber plate wiper as you buy in any ten-cent store is the best tool to use in filling your dough in the time after you have mixed a cake or anything in that line. You will be surprised how fast your work is done, and no waste is left sticking in the bowl.

Hints for Homemakers

By June Rogers

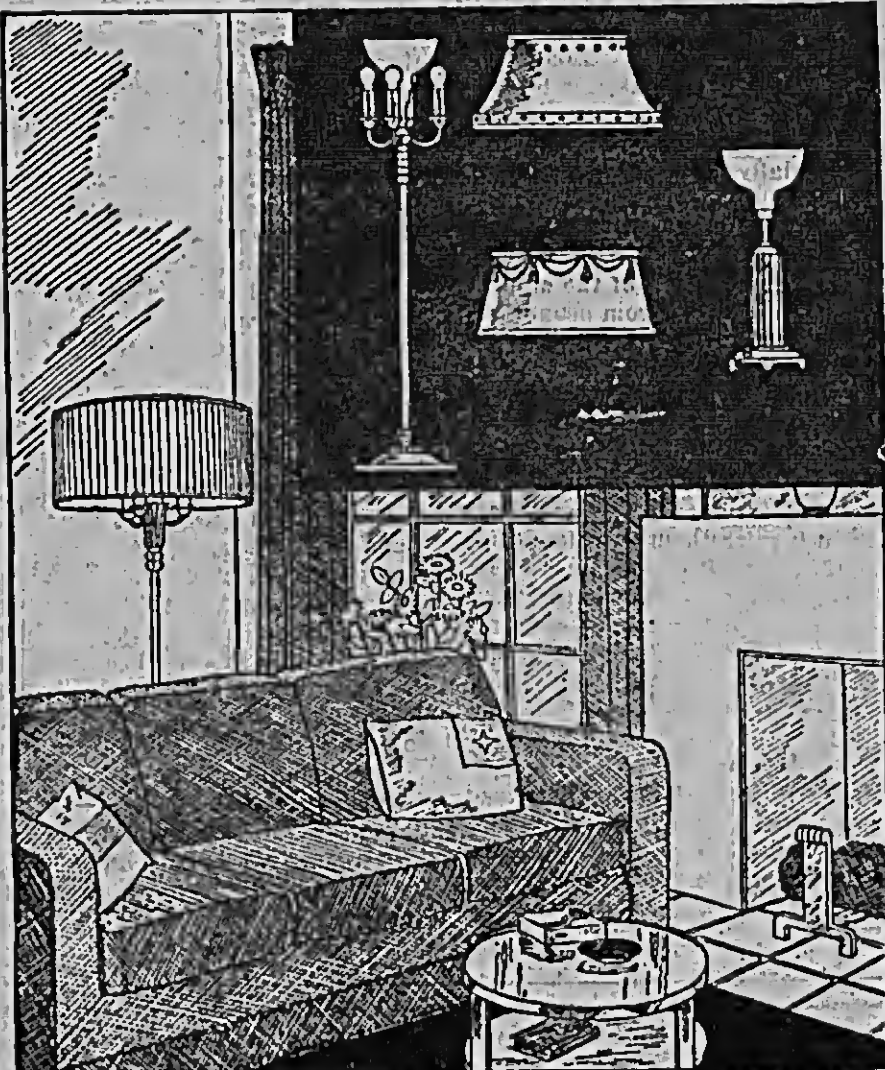

THE fear of moths need no longer influence one in buying furniture. Those lovely mohair velvets and frozes that so many housewives have foregone through fear of moth damage can now be obtained with a five-year guarantee against moth damage. And, in the remote event that a moth should injure the upholstery there is no red-tape necessary for adjustment. The guarantee is backed with an insurance policy given to the buyer and in case of damage by moths you simply notify the underwriter, who makes good on the loss on labor, material and incidental charges.

Have you ever used your favorite department store's escalator for "spotting" purposes? The next time you are carried up or down in your shopping forays notice how the escalator allows you to pick out the various departments and specials you are looking for most easily. Many experienced shoppers take advantage of this to lay out their shopping campaign from floor to floor, thus making the escalator a "step-saver."

Making The Home More Livable

—With Lamps for the Away-from-the-wall Davenport

By Jean Prentice

FIRESIDE happiness depends very much on the kind of lamps provided for those hours of reading, sewing or just plain ease.

In many a spacious living room, and small ones also, the davenport is placed alongside the hearth, as in the accompanying sketch. Where there is no fireplace the lamp appropriate for the away-from-the-wall location is the same.

Just one lamp stands by the davenport in the living room illustrated. But you can bank on that one! It knows all the tricks of good lighting, having been built according to specifications of the Illuminating Engineering Society, a national group of lighting scientists.

You'll note first that the lamp is placed at the back of the davenport. This balanced arrangement is possible because of the height of the lamp and the width of the shade which allow sufficient spread of light for the entire length of the davenport. . . . Johnnie won't be out of range of good light regardless of where he sits on this davenport.

The reasons for the excellent lighting are apparent when the shade is lifted, as illustrated in the smaller sketch.

The glass bowl between the candles throws light up as well as down, thus eliminating glare and providing light as restful to the eyes as an eider down mattress would be to the body. Within the bowl is another bit of magic, an electric lamp, newly developed, which (because of two filaments) gives three different intensities of light at the turn of a switch. For sewing and the reading of fine print for long periods, the lights of the auxiliary candles, holding bulbs of from 40 to 60-watts, are added to that of the central bulb.

"How about using a single lamp at the end of the davenport, rather than at the back?" I hear someone ask. Well, that depends on your davenport. If it is too long the lamp standard would have to be excessively and awkwardly high to shed its light the entire length.

End table lamps can of course be used, but are not always practical for the away-from-the-wall location in a smaller room where space must be conserved.

If the davenport is of the Love Seat type, a lamp similar to the smaller one sketched, and using a 100-watt lamp, may be placed on a table behind it. This is also an approved I. E. S. Study and Reading Lamp, a multitude of lovely designs for which have been made by many manufacturers.

It is higher than table lamps you've been using, no doubt. But that's a new style note!—In the interest of eyesight preservation.

Tells Story of Christmas Seals

Emily Bissell, of Delaware conducted the first Christmas Seal Sale in the United States in 1907 to realize funds for a Tuberculosis pavilion in her state. As a result of this sale, the Red Cross undertook the nationwide sale of seals in 1908. The first sale realized $135,000. They continued the sale of seals until 1920.

From 1907 to 1910, the National Tuberculosis Association, under the leadership of Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, founder of the first Tuberculosis Sanatorium in the United States, was struggling for existence with the enthusiastic support of foremost scientists but with little funds. The Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association joined and the Red Cross gave moral and financial backing, its emblem and its name. The value of such sponsorship for the Tuberculosis movement can hardly be estimated.

For ten years this partnership lasted and only the emblem of the Red Cross appeared on the seals. In 1919, however, the double-barred cross, international emblem of the Tuberculosis Association, was also put on the seal. In 1920, the relationship between the two great organizations was dissolved and since then, only the double-barred cross has appeared on Christmas Seals. The division was made because the Red Cross wished to continue the Annual Roll Call and did not care to appeal for funds twice in one year. Since 1920, the seals are known as "Tuberculosis Christmas Seals."

Today there are two thousand state and local associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Association. Of the total funds raised in Lake county only a small percentage is sent to the State Tuberculosis Association; the rest remains in the county for local use. Only Seals bought in Lake county helps Lake county work.

Through the intensive educational work made possible by the Christmas Seal, Tuberculosis specialists and nurses reach remote country districts, printed matter on disease prevention and control is distributed to schools, homes and factories and there is an active public interest in Tuberculosis control among civic, commercial, social and religious groups.

These little stamps help pay for your own and other families' protection. They help teach prevention and control of Tuberculosis to parents and children. When one realizes that in Lake county, there is one case of active or latent Tuberculosis for every 24 persons, and that there are 425 cases of Tuberculosis on the files of your local association with only provision for the care of twenty cases in the Lake County Hospital, the need for your cooperation in the 1934 Christmas Seal Sale becomes apparent. Please buy Christmas Seals this year as liberally as you can to help promote this work in Lake county.

FINDS BANKS WILLING, BORROWERS CAUTIOUS

Prominent Writer Refutes Statements Bankers Are Refusing Sound Loans—Describes Reasons for Reduced Volume of Credit.

FIGURES supplied by typical, well-managed banks in different parts of the country show that a high proportion of all applications for loans have been granted in the past year or two, says Albert W. Atwood in a recent article in The Saturday Evening Post on "The Idle Dollar." Excerpts from Mr. Atwood's article follow:

"Frequently banks state that as high as 90 per cent of all such applications are granted and for from 60 to 75 per cent of the amount asked for. Allowing that the bankers make these figures as favorable to their own case as possible, it seems strange that we are told again and again that banks are not lending at all."

"If we take into account the whole class of regular bank borrowers, the plain fact is very few want to borrow yet. For the word 'borrow' is merely another name for the word 'debt,' and we face a great world-wide drive to get out of debt."

"An experienced small-city banker, asked if banks were lending freely enough, wisely replied: 'The really good borrower does not wish to borrow now. In fact, I think our customers are making a remarkably fine showing in paying off their loans, especially loans of long standing.'"

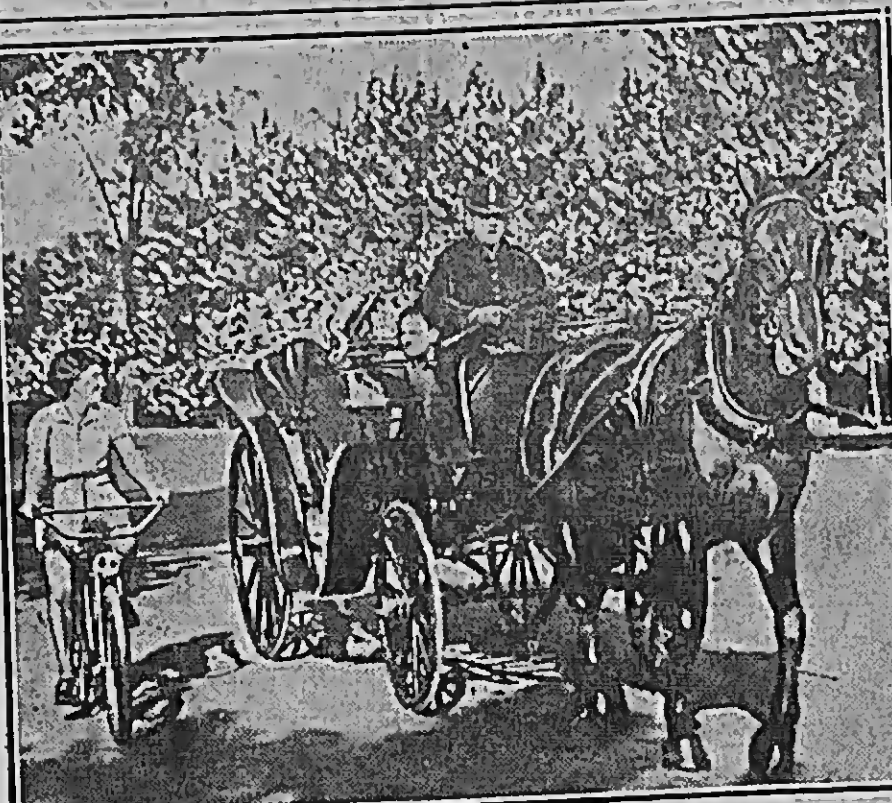

The Shrinkage of Credit
"Or if we think of business concerns rather than of individuals, it is conservative to say that those able to maintain high credit ratings have been mostly the ones able to maintain ample cash resources and, therefore, least in need of credit. As prices and costs fell, many concerns found themselves with plenty of cash because of the shrinkage in operations. Cash resources were still further swollen by reduced dividends, and smaller inventories made bank borrowings still less necessary."

"Expressed in another way, banks cannot expand credit, they cannot make loans, unless there is a demand for the same. Fundamentally, the business transaction makes the loan, the loan does not make the transaction. It is a mistake to try to force upon business organizations funds which they do not need. Under the circumstances the 'idle dollar' is a natural and proper enough phenomenon. A demand for credit is difficult to create artificially, and there is always danger in so doing."

"Banks must be liquid enough at all times to pay depositors. The idea of a commercial loan is that it represents a self-liquidating process in business. If the banker makes only those advances that are inherently sound, and selects his maturities wisely, he will have incoming funds to meet demands."

Government Lending
"As everybody knows, the Government has vast lending agencies, for home owners, farmers, and the like. These have nothing to do with the subject of this article, except that all such Government operations would be impossible if the banks did not lend the

Glad To See You're Back!

Martin Fox, dean of the few remaining coach drivers in New York City, who remembers the old high-wheelers, the "Scorchers," and the tandem bicycles of four decades ago, when he first started to drive a horse in Central Park, greets Miss Clara Shart, who is out for a spin on a cold November afternoon. Fox likes the modern bike and also brought with it the proper cycling costumes.

Government money for the purpose.

"No one can set a time when borrowing will be resumed. But it will come when men once more feel that conditions are sufficiently settled to warrant them in taking chances, in entering upon deals, and in trying to make money."

Mr. Atwood says that it may be that the banks are overcautious now, just as they were overcautious in 1929, but calls attention to the fact that until a little more than a year ago banks were failing "partly because they had loaned too freely, and were being criticized right and left for precisely that fault."

"Indeed, the banks which had been cautious in their lending policy came through the crisis safely. Under such conditions it is utterly useless to criticize banks for not making loans. After the experience they had for several years, especially in 1932 and 1933, it is only natural that they should relax their requirements very slowly and gradually."

"Unfortunately, many of the applications for loans are not from people who want temporary banking accommodation for three or six months and are quite able to meet their maturity dates, but are from those who really need permanent capital. They are busted and they want someone to stake them to a new start. What they really seek is a partner to furnish them with long-time capital. But depositors insist, and therefore, it is a grave question whether banks should tie up their funds for any length of time."

COMPTROLLER COMMENTS INSTITUTE OF BANKING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American Institute of Banking, said to be the most successful project of its kind in the field of applied adult education, has performed a valuable function in training bank clerks for "sound public service as well as personal success," J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, said here in a recent radio address. The Institute is a section of the American Bankers Association.

"While imparting useful knowledge, it has improved the morale of banking personnel and has stimulated in its members an intelligent interest in national and international monetary problems," Mr. O'Connor said. "Its courses cover a wide field in banking. Among the subjects, one finds Bank Organization and Operation, Commercial Law, Negotiable Instruments Law, and Economics, in the Pre-Standard Division; followed by such subjects as Money and Banking, Credit Management, Financial Statement Analysis and Bank Management, in the Standard Division."

"Each and every subject is one which is necessary to a knowledge of banking. However, the Institute does not stop here, but encourages graduates study in Corporation Finance, Trust Service, Farm Credit Administration and Business Forecasting. Again it emphasizes in special courses the importance of the less technical but highly beneficial study of Constructive Customer Relations, Banking Fundamentals and Public Speaking. No comment is necessary on these courses; their value is at once apparent."

Thanksgiving==

Show us the man (or woman) who doesn't feel warm about the cockles of his heart when Thanksgiving is mentioned and we'll show you someone who spent his childhood in Greenland, Borneo or Afghanistan.

July 4th has turned into a parade of tooting automobiles. New Year's day is just a time to sleep off the night before. Thanksgiving alone remains the American holiday true to its name and its founding.

It has what the Germans call "gemutlichkeit"—a grand, companionable coziness—a feeling that those near and dear are close—that the crops are in—that cellar and attic are crammed with the winter's needs—that the front door is open to friends but barred to the blizzards that howl outdoors.

It's time to put the last leaf in the table and spread it with the best of everything, to lay out the finest silver and china. It's a time to forget diets and think about drumsticks, to remember cranberries instead of calories, to crack nuts and sip cider and tell old tales.

Above all it's a time to remember that life is all too solemn, that one laugh is worth a hundred sermons—and that even a dour old Puritan recognized the need for being prodigal one day out of the year and enjoying a good, old fashioned THANKSGIVING.
